

Grub Street Chicago home

GRUB STREET Chicago

DAILY FOOD NEWS FROM nymag.com & MENUPAGES

GO

TOP STORIES

» A First Look at Balsan and Ria, Opening Wedne...

» A First Look at the Chicago French Market

» NoMI Wishes Us Maccy Holidays

» New Releases: Foodie and A la Card 2010

Top chefs & sommeliers

Campaign financed with aid from the European Union

« Previous Post | Next Post »

A First Look at Balsan and Ria, Opening Wednesday

12/7/09 at 2:18 PM | Comment

Watch the Slideshow

Originally slated to open this summer, the restaurants at the Elysian Hotel are finally ready to take their opening bows this Wednesday. While the two restaurants differ in tone — the three-meals-a-day Balsan is more casual, the dinner-only Ria is about as plush a dining room as we've ever seen (the walls actually sparkle) — they share more than just an address. There's that Elysian Hotel je ne sais quoi, a certain grey-toned elegance that extends through both restaurants, and there's also the kitchen: Executive chef Jason McLeod heads up an all-star team that's dedicated to turning out game-changing cuisine. Check out our slideshow for a peek at the dining rooms, the kitchens, and — of course — the food.

Watch the Slideshow »

FIND A RESTAURANT

BY NAME FIND - A - FOOD MENUPAGES

GO

OR SEARCH BY

Neighborhood Cuisine Feature

ADVERTISEMENT

ALSACE WINE PAIRINGS from GrubStreet.com & JustAddFood.com

Throw a paella party with Pinot Gris
Crémant d'Alsace makes any occasion a celebration
Top spots across the U.S. to sample Alsace wines
Anthony Giglio offers tips on how to spot a good Riesling

ALSACE WINES Campaign financed with aid from the European Union

E-mail the editors Get the RSS feed

Follow us on Twitter Join the Flickr pool